Using cell phones on planes would escalate the already high tensions between passengers who are crammed into tight quarters for long periods of time and would ultimately lead to more in-flight disputes and possibly violence. Allowing cell phones is not a good idea.